Contents

List of abbreviations
Introduction

Chapter 1: The three paradigms: negritude, ethnopsychiatry and African socialism

1. Negritude
   i The situation of the Negro
   (a) The contribution of the Negro to the world
   ii Negritude as social theory
   iii Sartre's 'Orphée noir'
   iv The sympathisers
2. Ethnopsychiatry
   i
3. African socialism and class conflict
   i The class analysis of Africa

Chapter 2: Negritude

1. Fanon's critique of negritude
   i Racial and political consciousness
   ii Criticisms of negritude in The Wretched
   iii Affirmations of negritude in The Wretched
2. Fanon and Sartre's 'Orphée noir'
   i Fanon's affirmations of Sartre's thesis
3. The radical left critique
4. Conclusion

---

Page numbers are approximate and vary depending on the specific edition of the book.
Chapter 3: Ethnopsychiatry and the psychopathology of colonialism: Fanon's account of colonised man in 'Black Skin White Masks'

1. The symptomatology and the myth of Negro inferiority 65
2. Negrophobia 73
3. Liberation in Black Skin White Masks 75

Chapter 4: From psychiatric practice to political theory 82

1. The clinical writings 82
   i The sociology of a psychosomatic disorder 85
   ii The sociology of mental illness 89
   iii The ethnopsychiatric critique 101
   iv 'Sociotherapy in a Ward for Muslim Men' 108

Chapter 5: Culture and personality 118

1. The colonial personality 118
   i Colonial deficiency 125
   ii Cultural withdrawal 127
2. How colonialism causes mental illness 127
3. Conclusion 131

Chapter 6: Class conflict and the liberation of Africa 137

1. Imperialism and colonialism 137
2. Fanon's view of class in his early writings 139
3. Fanon's theory of class conflict 142
   i The revolutionary classes 148
     (a) The peasantry 148
     (b) The lumpen-proletariat 154
     (c) The lumpen-proletariat and the peasantry as a revolutionary class 156
     (d) The proletariat 160
     (e) The European working class 162

Chapter 7: The failed revolution 166

1. The forces of reaction 166
   i The petty bourgeoisie and the national bourgeoisie 166
   ii The rise of the national bourgeoisie 168
   iii The critique of the national bourgeoisie 172
Contents

2. The two escape routes from the national bourgeois phase 176
   i Blocking the road to the national bourgeoisie 176
   ii The relentless dialectic and autarchic development 179

Chapter 8: The neo-colonial state 184

Chapter 9: Towards a critique of Fanon’s class analysis 200

Chapter 10: Conclusion 205

Appendix I: Fanon and Mannoni: conflicting psychologies of colonialism 213
1. Fanon’s critique of Mannoni 214
   i Fanon, Mannoni and racism 214 ii The Occidental and Oriental personalities and the question of inferiority 217
   iii Colonialism: deculturation and acculturation 218

Appendix II: Mental health in Algeria 222

Notes 225
Select Bibliography 235
Index 245