SINGING THE PRAISES DIVINE:
MUSIC IN THE HINDU TRADITION

by
SELINA THIELEMANN

A.P.H. PUBLISHING CORPORATION
5, Ansari Road, Darya Ganj
New Delhi-110 002
Contents

The divinity of sound: music in the Indian religious tradition 1

The concept of bhakti in Hindu traditions and its bearing on Indian music 17

Vrindaban: sacred spot and center of life 31

Devotional songs of Vraja in the cycle of seasons 38

Rāga in context: the treatment of melody types in aṣṭayāma sevā and Vaiṣṇava liturgies 51

Enacting divine deeds: the rāsalilā dramas of Vraja 57

The description of the rāsa kridā in the Bhāgavata Purāṇa and its elaboration in devotional poetry: the mahārāsa verses of Paramānanda Dāsa 65

The poet-singers of Vraja and their musico-literary heritage 78

Professor Josef Kuckertz and his research into the Vaiṣṇava songs of Karnataka 89

Haveli samgīta: music, space and ritual in the Vaiṣṇava temples of North India 110

Dhrupada: the foundation of North Indian music 130

The principal gharānās of classical dhrupada 136

Dhrupada in the Vaiṣṇava temples: the genre as living presence 151

The Vraja Kalā Gurukula: an institution for dhrupada 162