Psychological perspectives on justice
Theory and applications

Edited by
Barbara A. Mellers
University of California, Berkeley
Jonathan Baron
University of Pennsylvania
Contents

Series preface
Contributors

Part I: Introduction
   Introductory Remarks
   Barbara A. Mellers

Part II: Psychological perspectives
   Equality as a decision heuristic
   David M. Messick
   Two insights occasioned by attempts to pin down the equity formula
   Richard J. Harris
   Judgments of distributive justice
   Maya Bar-Hillel and Menahem Yaari

Part III: Economic perspectives
   Fairness in groups: Comparing the self-interest and social identity perspectives
   Tom Tyler and Robyn M. Dawes
   Heuristics and biases in equity judgments: A utilitarian approach
   Jonathan Baron
   Trade-offs in fairness and preference judgments
   Lisa D. Ordóñez and Barbara A. Mellers
   Information, fairness, and efficiency in bargaining
   Colin F. Camerer and George Loewenstein
Part IV: Variations in perspectives on justice

The unfolding of justice: A developmental perspective on reward allocation 183
Colleen F. Moore, Sheri E. Hembree, and Robert D. Enright

Of ants and grasshoppers: The political psychology of allocating public assistance 205
Linda J. Skitka and Philip E. Tetlock

Liberal and conservative approaches to justice: Conflicting psychological portraits 234
Philip E. Tetlock and Gregory Mitchell

Part V: Policy perspectives

Justice and the allocation of scarce resources 259
Jon Elster

Models of equity in public risk 279
Rakesh K. Sarin

Fairness of distribution of risks with applications to Antarctica 292
Ivy E. Broder and L. Robin Keller

Part VI: Conclusion

Postscript 315
Jonathan Baron

Name index 331

Subject index 337