CONTENTS

CHAPTER I
INTRODUCTORY SUMMARY
By A. Goodwin, Professor of Modern History in the Victoria University of Manchester pages 1–24

CHAPTER II
POPULATION, COMMERCE AND ECONOMIC IDEAS
By H. J. Habakkuk, Fellow of All Souls College and Chichele Professor of Economic History in the University of Oxford

I. POPULATION GROWTH
The rapidity of population growth in the second half of the eighteenth century confined to certain areas of northern Europe 25–6
Malthus' distinction between the 'preventive' and 'positive' checks on population 26–7
The variation in the rates of population increase mainly attributable to different levels of the birth-rate 28–30
The effects of epidemics, war and famine 30
Changes in age-structure consequent on high mortality as a cause of the subsequent rapid population growth 30–1
The causes of lower mortality in the second half of the eighteenth century still in dispute 31
The influences sustaining the birth-rate 32–3

2. TRADE
The concentration of trade in the Atlantic, Mediterranean and Baltic 33
The mechanism of trade with the Americas 34
Exchange difficulties with the Far, Middle and Near East 34–5
The Baltic trade 35
The economic effects of the monopolies of colonial trade 36–7
The decline of the Dutch carrying trade 38
The growing relaxations of restraints on trade 39
British and international trade expansion 40–1
Its effects on industrial development 41
The reasons for Britain's lead in the Industrial Revolution 42
The expansion of French external trade 43
The resort to new methods of industrial production 44

3. ECONOMIC IDEAS
The rise of systematic economic analysis 45
The concept of a self-regulating natural order 45–6
The Physiocrats—agrarian and fiscal problems 47
Economic liberalism—Adam Smith 48
The derivative character of Spanish economic thought 49
The divergent trends in Italian economic thought 50
German and Austrian Cameralism contrasted with Western economic liberalism 50–3
The effects of economic speculation on national policy 53–4
CONTENTS

CHAPTER III
LITERATURE AND THOUGHT: THE ROMANTIC TENDENCY, ROUSSEAU, KANT

By W. Stark, Professor of Sociology, Fordham University, USA.

Old orthodoxies, the Enlightenment and the growth of pre-Romanticism page 55
Jean-Jacques Rousseau (1712-78) 56
His views on the corrupting influence of modern society 57-8
His social ideals derived from Geneva and republican Rome 58-60
Discours sur les Sciences et les Arts 61
Discours sur l'Inégalité (1755) 62-3
Du Contrat Social (1762) 64-6
Considerations sur le Gouvernement de Pologne 66
Projet de Constitution pour la Corse 67
La Nouvelle Héloïse (1761); Émile (1762) 67
Rousseau's break with Geneva and the coterie Holbachique 68
Comparison of English Methodism with Rousseauism 69-70
English pre-Romantic literature—the Ossianic poems 70
The Sturm und Drang movement in Germany 71-3
The return to rationalism. Immanuel Kant (1724-1804) 73
The permanent significance of Kantian philosophy 74
The synthesis of rationalism and empiricism in the Critique of Pure Reason (1781) 74-5
Transcendental philosophy 76
Kant as moral philosopher—the categorical imperative 76-8
The Critique of Practical Reason (1788) 78
Burke's Reflections on the Revolution in France (1790) 79
Bentham's Utilitarianism 79-80

CHAPTER IV
MUSIC, ART AND ARCHITECTURE

I. MUSIC

By F. W. Sternfeld, University Lecturer in Music in the University of Oxford

The origins of the modern sonata-form—Johann Stamitz at Mannheim and the Viennese classical school 81-2
Musical dictionaries and monographs 83
Haydn's musical predecessors 84
The opéra comique—Pergolesi's La Serva Padrona (1752) 85
Rousseau's Le Devin du village (1752) 86
The historical importance of Gluck's Orfeo (1762) 86-7
The influence of Stamitz at Mannheim 87
C. P. Emanuel Bach 87-8
Gottfried Van Swieten as musical patron 88
Haydn's musical career 88-90
Symphonies 90
String quartets 90-1
Vocal music 91
Later instrumental compositions—the Salomon concerts (1791-2) 91-2
CONTENTS

Mozart’s youthful performances ...................................................... page 92
His independence of patronage and indifference to contemporary taste ... 92-3
Musical compositions in his Vienna period (1781-91) ............................................
  Piano concertos (1782-6); Die Entführung aus dem Serail and Le Nozze di Figaro ............................................................................ 94-5
  Don Giovanni (1787) ........................................................................ 95-6
  Die Zauberflöte (1791) ..................................................................... 95-6

2. ART AND ARCHITECTURE

By Peter Murray, Witt Librarian, Courtauld Institute of Art, University of London

Neoclassicism .......................................................................................... 96-7
Rome as an artistic centre—the Grand Tour ............................................. 97
The etchings of Giambattista Piranesi ...................................................... 98
J. J. Winckelmann as exponent of Neoclassicism ...................................... 98-9
The excavation of Herculaneum and Pompeii ........................................... 99
A. R. Mengs (1728-79) and the early phase of Neoclassical painting ........ 100-1
The sculpture of Houdon and Canova ..................................................... 102
Rationalist theories of architecture—de Cordemoy, Lodoli and M. A. Laugier 102-3
The reaction against Greek architectural styles ......................................... 104
  Piranesi’s Della Magnificenza ed Architettura de’ Romani (1761) ......... 105
  Sir William Chambers’ Treatise on Civil Architecture (1759) .............. 105
The Gothic revival ................................................................................. 105-6
  The Picturesque movement and English landscape gardening .......... 106-7
Influence of Sir Joshua Reynolds as President of the Royal Academy .... 107-8
History painting—Benjamin West and J. S. Copley .................................. 108-9
Alderman Boydell’s Shakespeare Gallery ............................................... 109-10
The ‘Adam revolution’ in architecture .................................................... 110
Neoclassicism in France ........................................................................ 110
Soufflot’s Panthéon ............................................................................. 110-11
C. N. Ledoux and E. L. Boulée as Neoclassical architects ....................... 111-12
J. L. David’s Oath of the Horatii (1785) and the transition to revolutionary Neoclassicism ............................................................... 113-14

CHAPTER V

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

By D. McKie, formerly Professor of the History and Philosophy of Science in the University of London

Mathematics and mechanics—J. L. Lagrange’s Mécanique analytique (1788) .... 115
Astronomy—Herschel’s discovery of Uranus (1781) .................................... 116-17
Buffon’s Époques de la Nature (1778) ..................................................... 118
Improvement in scientific instruments .................................................... 118
Joseph Black and the science of heat ...................................................... 118-20
The ‘phlogiston’ theory of combustion ................................................... 121-2
Priestley’s isolation of oxygen ............................................................... 122-3
Lavoisier’s discovery of the chemical composition of air and water ......... 123-5
The scientific classification of chemical substances ................................. 125-6
Lavoisier’s Traité élémentaire de chimie (1789) and the foundations of modern chemistry ................................................................. 127
Lavoisier and Laplace and the study of respiration ................................... 128-9
CONTENTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The law of reciprocal proportions</td>
<td>130</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Priestley, Galvani and Volta—the study of electricity</td>
<td>130-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Quantitative research in meteorology</td>
<td>131-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geology—the controversy between the Neptunists and the Vulcanists</td>
<td>132-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>French and English cartography</td>
<td>134-5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scientific societies, academies and journals</td>
<td>135-7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Progress in technology</td>
<td>137-8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James Watt and the evolution of the steam engine</td>
<td>138</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berthollet and the industrial use of chlorine for bleaching</td>
<td>139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mechanical inventions</td>
<td>139-40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The supremacy of French science in the later eighteenth century</td>
<td>140-2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPTER VI

EDUCATIONAL IDEAS, PRACTICE AND INSTITUTIONS

By A. V. Judges, Professor of the History of Education in the University of London

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The educational implications of eighteenth-century rationalism</td>
<td>143-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The French Encyclopaedia and the notion of adult education</td>
<td>145</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The search for an alternative to religious education</td>
<td>146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>International co-operation in educational reform—the Masonic movement</td>
<td>147-8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The importance of biological studies in educational experiment</td>
<td>148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The role of the universities in Scotland, North America and Germany</td>
<td>149-50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>German, French and Russian academies of learning</td>
<td>151-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The reaction against Locke's sensationalist psychology in Germany</td>
<td>153-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The impact of the psychological treatises of the abbé de Condillac</td>
<td>155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>David Hartley and the origins of Utilitarian behaviourism</td>
<td>156</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The biological trend in French educational theory</td>
<td>156-7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Education and social reconstruction—Helvétius and Owen</td>
<td>158-9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The English dissenting academies</td>
<td>160-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>‘Modern’ schools in America and Germany—Basedow’s Philanthropinum at Dessau</td>
<td>161-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rousseau’s educational theory</td>
<td>163-5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The effects of the dissolution of the Society of Jesus</td>
<td>166-8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Educational reform in revolutionary France</td>
<td>169-70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Condorcet’s scheme for national education (April 1793)</td>
<td>170-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lepetier de Saint-Fargeau’s primary-school draft</td>
<td>171-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Écoles Centrales of 1795</td>
<td>173</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Institutions of advanced study—École Normale Supérieure and École Poly-technique</td>
<td>173</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPTER VII

ARMED FORCES AND THE ART OF WAR

I. NAVIES

By Christopher Lloyd, Professor of History, Royal Naval College, Greenwich

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The inferiority of British naval strategy in the American War of Independence</td>
<td>174</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The defects of eighteenth-century naval tactics</td>
<td>175</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The deficiencies of the British naval signalling system</td>
<td>175-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The peace and war establishment of the British navy</td>
<td>176-7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Recruitment and impressment</td>
<td>177</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CONTENTS

The incidence of disease ........................................ page 178
The attractions of naval service for officers .................. 179
Lord Sandwich as First Lord .................................. 179–80
Naval administration ........................................... 181
Shortages of timber and naval stores ......................... 181–3
Choiseul as the restorer of the French navy ................. 183
The failure to reform French officer structure—the rivalry between la plume and l'épée ............................................. 184–5
The superiority of French naval architecture ............... 186
The effect of the revolution of 1789 on the French navy ... 186–7
The American ‘Continental’ navy ............................... 187
Paul Jones and privateering in the war of American Independence ........................... 187–8
The Russian navy .................................................. 189
Comparative statistics of European navies in 1792 ........ 190

2. ARMIES

By J. R. Western, Lecturer in History in the Victoria University of Manchester

The indecisiveness of eighteenth-century warfare .......... 190–1
The improvement of small arms ................................ 192
The increased mobility and fire-power of artillery ......... 193
Tactical use of irregular light infantry ......................... 194–5
Guibert’s Essai Général de Tactique (1772) and the use of the column ...................... 196–8
New principles of offensive strategy ......................... 198–200
Supply problems .................................................... 201
Cartography and the rise of General Staffs .................. 201–2
Military reform and political advance ...................... 202–3
The vested interests of the lesser nobility in continental armies ........................................ 203–4
The Chevalier d’Arc’s La Noblesse Militaire (1756) .... 205
French and Prussian cadet schools ............................ 206
Auxiliary forces and militia service ........................... 206–7
The army reforms of Saint-Germain (1775–7) and the ordonnance of 1781 .................. 207
Recruitment of rank and file .................................. 208
Foreign mercenaries ............................................. 209
National militias and armies of reserve ..................... 210–11
Military discipline ............................................. 212
The improvement of soldiers’ living conditions .......... 212–13
The achievements of military reformers in European states ........ 214–15
The effects of the revolution on the French army ......... 216–17

CHAPTER VIII

EUROPEAN RELATIONS WITH ASIA AND AFRICA

I. RELATIONS WITH ASIA

By K. A. Ballhatchet, Reader in Indian History in the University of Oxford

Main aspects of European relations with Asia (1763–93) .... 218
Grant of the divani of Bengal, Bihar and Orissa to the British East India Company 219
The Regulating Act of 1773 ...................................... 220
The Company’s modifications of Clive’s ‘dual system’ .... 220
Establishment of civil and criminal courts in Bengal .... 221
CONTENTS

The Maratha wars ........................................... pages 221–3
Pitt's India Act (1784) ....................................... 223
The impeachment of Warren Hastings .................. 224
Cornwallis as Governor General ......................... 225
His judicial reforms ...................................... 226
Permanent revenue settlement in Bengal ............ 227
Weakening of the Maratha confederacy ............ 228–9
The French in India (1763–93) ......................... 229–30
Expansion of British trade with the Far East .... 230–1
The China tea trade and Macartney's mission to Peking (1793) ... 232
The Dutch East India Company (1765–99) ........ 233–4
European interest in the culture and civilisation of China and India ... 234–6

2. RELATIONS WITH AFRICA

By J. D. HARGREAVES, Professor of History in the University of Aberdeen

Scientific and commercial interest in Africa ............ 236–7
Economic and social structure of the Dutch colony at the Cape ... 237–8
 Anglo-French rivalry in South Africa .................. 238
Boer expansion and the 'Kaffir wars' ................. 238–9
The Portuguese and French in East Africa ............ 239
English and French relations with Egypt .............. 239–40
European trade interests in North Africa ............ 240
West Africa and the Atlantic slave-trade .. 241
French colonial policy in Africa ..................... 243
Contact with the interior in West Africa ........... 244
The restricted cultural impact of Europe in Africa ... 245–6
African imports in exchange for slaves .............. 246–7
Causes of the degradation of African societies ...... 247
The growth of the movement for the abolition of the slave-trade in France .............................................. 248
  in Britain ............................................ 249
The search for a new economic relationship between Europe and Africa—the colonisation of Sierra Leone ............... 249–50
Earlier schemes and the limits of achievement in Sierra Leone .... 250–1

CHAPTER IX

EUROPEAN DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS, 1763–1790

By M. S. ANDERSON, Reader in International History in the London School of Economics and Political Science

International problems in Europe after the peace treaties of 1763 .... 252–3
The resurgence of French maritime and colonial ambitions under Choiseul ... 254
British diplomatic isolation .................................. 255
Panin's projected 'Northern System' ...................... 256
Anglo-Spanish disputes over the Falkland Islands and the fall of Choiseul
  (1770–1) .................................................. 257
The Russo-Prussian alliance of 1764 and the election of Poniatowski as king of Poland .................................................. 258
The decline of French influence in Poland and the outbreak of the Russo-Turkish war (September 1768) ................................ 258–9
Russian war aims and Austro-Russian antagonism in the Balkans .... 260–1
CONTENTS

Prussia, Russia and Austria agree to partition Poland ........................ page 262
Coup d'état of Gustavus III in Sweden (1772) ......................... 263
Russo-Turkish peace-treaty of Kutchuk-Kainardji (1774) ................ 264-5
The League of Armed Neutrality (1780) .............................. 266
The divergent policies of France and Spain in the American War of Independence ........................................ 266-7
British concessions to the European powers in the Treaty of Versailles (January 1783-May 1784) ....................... 268
Austro-Prussian friction and war over the Bavarian Succession (1778-9) .................................................. 269-72
The Austro-Russian alliance of 1781 and the Russian annexation of the Crimea (1783) ........................................ 272
The defeat of Joseph II’s plans for the opening of the Scheldt and the exchange of the Netherlands .................. 272-4
Catherine II’s ‘Greek’ project and the Russo-Turkish war of 1787 .......................................................... 274
The Dutch crisis of 1787 and the Anglo-Prussian alliance of 1788 ................................................................. 275
Anglo-Prussian tension over Hertzberg’s exchange schemes ........ 276
Catherine II’s difficulties with Britain and Prussia ....................... 276-7
The Convention of Reichenbach (July 1790) .......................... 277
Changes in the structure of international relations since 1763 .... 278

CHAPTER X

THE HABSBURG POSSESSIONS AND GERMANY

By E. WANGERMANN, Lecturer in Modern History in the University of Leeds

The continuing need for administrative and financial reconstruction in the Habsburg dominions after 1763 .................. 279
Maria Theresa’s efforts to break down the fiscal immunities of the privileged orders and to restrict the feudal obligations of the peasantry .................................................. 280-2
The ecclesiastical reforms of Maria Theresa and the origins of ‘Josephism’ ................................................... 283-5
Joseph’s plans, as co-Regent, for territorial aggrandisement (1772-9) .......................................................... 285-6
The motivation of reform under the Emperor Joseph II (1780-90) ................................................................. 286-7
Joseph II’s schemes for the introduction of a uniform land-tax (1784-9) .......................................................... 288-9
His plans for agricultural and industrial expansion and the Patent of Toleration ........................................ 290
The abolition of serfdom (November 1781-July 1782) .......... 291
The ecclesiastical policy of Joseph II .................................. 291-3
The repercussions of Joseph II’s foreign policy on his domestic difficulties ..................................................... 293-6
Enlightened despotism in the smaller German states ............ 296
The spurious reputation of Frederick II of Prussia as an ‘enlightened’ ruler ..................................................... 297
The political awakening of the non-privileged orders in the Habsburg dominions and Germany ....................... 298-9
Popular demands for further toleration and modern representative government ........................................... 299-300
The repressive policies of German governments after 1785 ........ 301-2
Joseph II’s retreat from Enlightened Despotism .................... 302-3
Leopold II’s successful efforts to terminate Austrian isolation in external affairs ........................................... 303
Leopold II as arbitrator between the privileged and unprivileged orders and his reforms of the criminal code ........ 304
His plans for the reform of the provincial Estates ............... 305
CONTENTS

CHAPTER XI
RUSSIA
By I. Young, formerly Lecturer in Slavonic Studies in the University of Cambridge

Russia from Peter the Great to Catherine II
The insecurity of Catherine's position as Czarina
State control of ecclesiastical revenues and Catherine's confirmation of noble privileges
The Legislative Commission of 1767
Catherine's encouragement of educational reform and of social satire
Pugachev's rebellion (1773)
The local government statute of 1775
Catherine's charter of the nobility and the city statute (1785)
Jankovic's educational programme (1786)
Nikolai Novikov and Russian Freemasonry
Alexander Radishchev's Journey from St Petersburg to Moscow (1790)
Underlying principles of Catherine's foreign policy
Panin's 'Northern Accord'
Difficulties arising from the Russo-Prussian alliance of 1764
War with Turkey (1768) and the Russian naval victory at Chesme (1770)
Russian agreement to partition Poland
The treaty of Kutchuk Kainardji (June 1774)
Catherine's policy of non-commitment in the Bavarian Succession and the League of Armed Neutrality
The influence of Potemkin on Russian foreign policy (1776-89)
Bezborodko's 'Greek project' and the Russo-Turkish war of 1787-92
The second and third partitions of Poland (1793-5)
Catherine's indifference to budgetary problems and commercial and industrial trends in Russia
Catherine's aims and achievements

CHAPTER XII
THE PARTITIONS OF POLAND
By L. R. Lewitter, Fellow of Christ's College and Lecturer in Slavonic Studies (Polish) in the University of Cambridge

The era of partition in Polish historiography
Partition as a settled tradition of eighteenth-century diplomacy
Partition as a device for the maintenance of the balance of power
The internal and strategic weakness of Poland
Stanislas Augustus (Poniatowski) as king of Poland
The attitudes of Catherine II, Frederick II and Maria Theresa to partition
Religious dissent in Poland and the grant of toleration (1767-8)
The Confederacy of Bar and the General Confederacy (1769)
The first partition (August 1772)
The spread of Western Enlightenment and the work of the National Educational Commission
Constitutional, administrative and fiscal reform in Poland after 1764
The Great Seym (1788-92)

xiv
CONTENTS

The Polish constitution of 3 May 1791 344-6
Prussian economic blockade of Poland after 1775 347
Limited progress of Polish industrial development 348-9
Catherine’s refusal to sanction political reform in Poland and the conclusion of the Prusso-Polish treaty of March 1790 349-50
The failure of the projected co-operation between Britain, Poland and Prussia to restore the status quo in Turkey (1791) 351-2
The Prussian attitude to constitutional change in Poland and the Austro-Prussian treaty of July 1791 353
The origins of the second partition (23 January 1793) 353
The insurrection of Kosciuszko (1794) 354-5
The third partition (October 1795) 356
Kosciuszko’s schemes for the emancipation of the peasants 356-7
The failure of his strategic plans for Franco-Polish collaboration 357-8
The ‘causes’ of the partitions 359

CHAPTER XIII

THE IBERIAN STATES AND THE ITALIAN STATES, 1763–1793

1. THE IBERIAN STATES
   By J. Lynch, Leverhulme Lecturer in Hispanic and Latin American History, University College, London

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Charles III and his ministers</td>
<td>360</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The utilitarian objectives of ‘enlightened’ reform in Spain</td>
<td>361</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The anti-government riots of 1766, the expulsion of the Jesuits and the restriction of the powers of the Spanish Inquisition</td>
<td>361-5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The central agencies of reform—the Council of Castile, the ministers and the Junta de Estado</td>
<td>365-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The limited success of local government and agrarian reform</td>
<td>366-8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Commercial and industrial expansion</td>
<td>369-70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The maritime and colonial conflict with Britain</td>
<td>371-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The political, economic and cultural revival of Spain under Charles III</td>
<td>372-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The political ineptitude of Charles IV</td>
<td>373</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Floridablanca’s repressive policy after the outbreak of the French revolution</td>
<td>373-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Manuel Godoy as privado and First Secretary (November 1792)</td>
<td>375</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>War with France (1793–5)</td>
<td>375</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The administration of the Marquis de Pombal in Portugal</td>
<td>376</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>His ecclesiastical policy</td>
<td>376</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The incoherence of his economic legislation and the futility of his educational projects</td>
<td>377</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The reversal of his policies by Queen Maria I</td>
<td>378</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

2. THE ITALIAN STATES
   By J. Roberts, Fellow of Merton College, Oxford

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The political, economic and topographical diversity of the Italian peninsula in the eighteenth century</td>
<td>378-9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The structural fragmentation of the Italian states</td>
<td>379-80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The stability of political conditions after 1748</td>
<td>380</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The insignificance of industrial development in Italy at this period</td>
<td>381</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The regional diversity, immobility and backwardness of agriculture</td>
<td>381-4</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CONTENTS

The regional differences in social structure ........................................... pages 384-5
The Enlightenment of the settecento in its historical context ................... 385-6
The concept of felicità pubblica in the writings of Palmieri, Filangieri, Pietro
Verri, Beccaria and Galiani .......................................................... 386-7
Lombardy and Tuscany as centres of administrative and economic reform .... 388-9
The general problems of church-state relations in Italy .......................... 389-90
Conflicts over clerical landholding, celibacy and sanctuary ...................... 390
The dissolution of the Society of Jesus (1773) and the subsequent intransigence of Pope Pius VI .................................................................................. 391
The influence of Italian Jansenism inside the church and in alliance with the reforming monarchies ...................................................................... 392-4
The limited effects of the French revolution in Italy down to 1793 .......... 394-6

CHAPTER XIV

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE AMERICAN COMMUNITIES
OUTSIDE BRITISH RULE

By R. A. HUMPHREYS, O.B.E., Professor of Latin American History in the University of London

The resurgence and modernisation of Spain under Bourbon rule .......... 397
The territorial and economic expansion of the Spanish American empire .... 398-9
Administrative and commercial innovations under the early Bourbons .... 399-400
The liberalisation of Spanish colonial trade (1765-90) ......................... 401-2
Charles III's administrative reforms in South America and the adoption of the intendancy system ........................................................................... 402-3
The formation of a colonial militia, the restriction of ecclesiastical privilege and the encouragement of scientific investigation ..................................... 404
The balance-sheet of reform in South America under Charles III .......... 404-5
The growth of creole self-consciousness in the eighteenth century ......... 406
The Enlightenment in Spanish colonial America ................................. 407
The decline of the colonial empire under Charles IV ............................ 408
American and British contraband trade in the Caribbean and South America during the revolutionary and Napoleonic wars .................................. 409
The influence of Rousseau and of the French revolution ....................... 410
The creole defeat of the British filibustering invasion of the Rio de la Plata in 1806 411
The westward and southward expansion of the Portuguese colonial empire in South America .................................................................................. 411-13
The Pombaline reforms ........................................................................ 413
The decline of the mining settlements and the revival of agriculture in Brazil 414
Brazilian society and culture ................................................................ 415
The Inconfidência Mineira (1788) ....................................................... 415-16
The stagnation of French Guiana (Cayenne) ........................................ 416
The Dutch Guiana colonies and the origins of British Guiana ............... 416-17
The French West Indian colony of Saint Domingue ............................. 417-18
The effect of the French revolution—the mulatto and Negro risings of 1790 and 1791 ......................................................................................... 418
Toussaint Louverture and the occupation of Spanish Santo Domingo .... 419
The declaration of the independence of Haiti (1804) ............................. 420
CONTENTS

CHAPTER XV
SOCIAL AND PSYCHOLOGICAL FOUNDATIONS OF THE REVOLUTIONARY ERA
By R. R. PALMER, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences,
Washington University, St Louis, U.S.A.

The late eighteenth century as an era of revolutionary change page 421
Aristocratic, bourgeois, peasant and popular movements in the French revolution 421-2
Abortive revolutionary movements in other areas of Europe 422-3
The social structure of Europe east of the Elbe and its counterpart in certain areas of North and South America 424-7
The social structure of Western Europe and its counterpart in the northern colonies of British America 427-9
The ‘administrative’ and commercial bourgeoisie in Europe 429-31
The European and American aristocracies 431-2
The institutional framework of aristocratic predominance 432-3
The dynamics of social and political change in Europe (1763-89) 433-4
The growing exclusiveness of aristocratic groups 434-5
The rivalry of bourgeois and aristocrat in government, the army and the church 435-6
Aristocratic resistance to the fiscal demands of European governments after the Seven Years War 436-7
American resistance to the fiscal demands of the British Imperial parliament 438
The American rejection of British authority and the Declaration of Independence 439
The political and psychological impact of the American revolution in Europe 440-3
European emigration to the United States 443
The improvement in communications and the expansion of the press as factors in the growth of ‘public opinion’ 443-5
The ambivalent attitudes of the lower classes in Europe to political radicalism in the revolutionary period 445
Crowd psychology in France before and during the revolution 446-7
The origins and significance of French revolutionary fanaticism 447

CHAPTER XVI
AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE IN ITS CONSTITUTIONAL ASPECTS
By Max Beloff, Fellow of All Souls College and Gladstone Professor of Government and Public Administration in the University of Oxford

The structure of representative institutions in the British North American colonies 448-9
The uneasy relations between the colonial executives and the colonial assemblies 450
The machinery and institutions of Imperial control 451-2
The increasing role of the Imperial parliament in colonial affairs 452-3
The difficulty of compromise 454
Grenville’s efforts to tighten Imperial control after 1763 454-5
The Stamp Act crisis of 1765 455-6
The Declaratory Act and the Townshend duties 456-7
The growth of inter-colonial co-operation 457-8
Colonial resistance to the Tea Act of 1773 and the Coercive Acts 458-9
The first Continental Congress 459-61
The clash at Lexington (19 April 1775) and the second Continental Congress 461
CONTENTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>War-time efforts at conciliation on the basis of federal union</td>
<td>462</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The radical-conservative conflict in Congress and Franklin's plan for</td>
<td>463</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>confederation</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Declaration of Independence</td>
<td>464</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The drafting of the state constitutions</td>
<td>464-5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>American historiography and the emergence of the federal constitution</td>
<td>465-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Dickinson Draft and the Articles of Confederation (1781)</td>
<td>466-7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The defective powers of Congress under the Articles</td>
<td>467-8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shays's rebellion (1786) and the conservative reaction</td>
<td>469</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The North-West Ordinance (July 1787)</td>
<td>469</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Constitutional revision: the Convention at Annapolis and the federal</td>
<td>470-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Convention at Philadelphia</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Randolph, Paterson and Hamilton plans</td>
<td>471-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The final compromises</td>
<td>473</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The executive branch and the federal judiciary</td>
<td>474-5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The struggle for ratification</td>
<td>475-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Early constitutional amendments and the Bill of Rights</td>
<td>477</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The federal government and the President's 'cabinet'</td>
<td>478</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton and the emergence of the federalists and anti-federalists</td>
<td>479</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPTER XVII

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE IN ITS IMPERIAL, STRATEGIC AND DIPLOMATIC ASPECTS

By M. A. JONES, Senior Lecturer in American History and Institutions in the Victoria University of Manchester

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The problem of Imperial reorganisation after 1763</td>
<td>480</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>British efforts to raise a revenue in America and mounting colonial</td>
<td>481-5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>resistance (1764-75)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The outbreak of hostilities and the appointment of Washington as</td>
<td>485-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>commander-in-chief of the Continental army</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Operations round Boston from the battle of Breed's Hill to the</td>
<td>486-7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>British withdrawal to Halifax (June 1775–March 1776)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The repulse of the American invasion of Canada (September 1775–June</td>
<td>487-8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1776)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The moves towards separation and the Declaration of Independence</td>
<td>488-9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Divided loyalties—the American Loyalists and British critics of the</td>
<td>489-90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>war</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>British strategical and tactical difficulties in America</td>
<td>490-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lord George Germain and the conduct of military operations</td>
<td>491</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clinton's failure in the southern colonies (1776)</td>
<td>491-2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The British capture of New York and New Jersey (September–November</td>
<td>492</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1776)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Washington's tactical successes in the winter campaign of 1776–7</td>
<td>493</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>British strategical plans for the isolation of New England in 1777</td>
<td>493-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>and Burgoyne's surrender at Saratoga</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The winter at Valley Forge and the criticism of Washington as</td>
<td>495</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>commander</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vergennes' policy of secret aid to the Americans and the Franco-</td>
<td>496-7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>American alliance (February 1778)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The rejection of North's Conciliatory Propositions</td>
<td>497-8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The British reconquest of Georgia (March 1779)</td>
<td>499</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>American privateering and commerce destroying</td>
<td>499-500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The initial ineffectiveness of French naval assistance to the</td>
<td>500-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Americans and Spain's reluctance to enter the war</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Growing British isolation in Europe and the League of Armed</td>
<td>501</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Neutrality</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CONTENTS

The treason of Benedict Arnold and the mutinies of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey lines ................................................................. page 502
Clinton’s offensive against the Southern states (1780) ........................................... 503-4
The decisive defeat at Yorktown (October 1781) ......................................................... 504-5
The peace negotiations and the peace of Versailles (September 1783) ...................... 505-6
The failure of Shelburne’s schemes for Anglo-American rapprochement ............ 506-7
American difficulties with Britain and Spain under the peace settlement ............ 507-8

CHAPTER XVIII

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE IN ITS AMERICAN CONTEXT:
SOCIAL AND POLITICAL ASPECTS:
WESTERN EXPANSION

By Esmond Wright, Professor of Modern History in the University of Glasgow

Nova Scotia and the Floridas as military outposts in British North America........ 509-10
The diversified pattern of government in the mainland colonies ....................... 510-11
The social structure of colonial America ............................................................. 511-12
The economic and political consequences of westward expansion .................. 512-13
The population explosion ....................................................................................... 513
The economic and social sectionalism of the northern, middle and southern colonies .................................................................................. 513-16
The emergent polyglot nationalism of colonial America ...................................... 516-17
The relevance of seventeenth-century concepts of English constitutional liberty in America ................................................................................. 517-18
The legend of British monarchical despotism ...................................................... 518
The regional framework of economic and social discontent ............................... 519
The vital role of propaganda in the American revolution .................................... 519-20
The revolution as the sequel of the Seven Years War ........................................... 520
Absence of general discontent in America with the Navigation Acts ................. 521
The special economic and commercial grievances of New England ................. 521-2
The financial dependence of the southern colonies on British commercial houses 522
The problem of the western lands and the breakdown of the royal proclamation of October 1763 ................................................................. 522-3
Frontier radicalism in Pennsylvania and the Carolinas (1763-75) ................. 524-6
The revolutionary leaders and social unrest......................................................... 527
The limited concessions to political democracy in the new state constitutions .... 527-8
Social and economic reforms in the revolutionary era ....................................... 528-9
Criminal-law reforms and the progress of the anti-slavery movement ............... 529
Profit and loss in the American revolution—the gains of the small farmers and the disappearance of the colonial aristocracy ........................................ 530
The surrender of the western land claims of the separate states and the ratification of the Articles of Confederacy .................................... 530-1
The economic and diplomatic problems of the United States (1783-7) ............ 531-2
The far-sighted statesmanship of the North-West ordinances (1784-7) ............ 532-3
The obstacles to settlement in the old south-west ................................................. 533-5
The historical importance of the western frontier ................................................. 536
CONTENTS

CHAPTER XIX
THE BEGINNINGS OF REFORM IN GREAT BRITAIN:
IMPERIAL PROBLEMS: POLITICS AND ADMINISTRATION,
ECONOMIC GROWTH

By W. R. Ward, Senior Lecturer in History in the Victoria University of Manchester

The fiscal and constitutional problems of Imperial defence in North America after 1763 ......................................................... pages 537–8
English political factions and the East India Company .................. 538
Economic growth after the Seven Years War ............................. 538
George III and the administration of Bute ............................... 538–9
Grenville, Wilkes and the issue of general warrants ................. 540
George III's alienation from and dismissal of Grenville ............. 540
The administrations of Rockingham and Chatham ...................... 541–2
Grafton's ministry, the Middlesex election and 'City Radicalism' ... 543–4
The sources of political stability in the administration of Lord North .......................... 544–5
The crisis in the affairs of the East India Company and North's Regulating act of 1773 ............................ 545–6
Imperial problems in America, India and Ireland ....................... 547–8
The growth of the movement for parliamentary reform and for the relief of the Protestant Dissenters ......................... 549
The fiscal burdens of the American war and the county associations in Yorkshire and Middlesex (1779–80) .............. 549–50
The campaign for 'economical' reform and its limited success under the second Rockingham ministry .............................. 550–2
The fall of Shelburne's administration and the Fox–North Coalition .......... 553
Fox's India Bill: the government of the Younger Pitt and the General Election of 1784 .................................................. 553–4
The insecurity of Pitt's tenure of office and the Regency crisis of 1788–9 .............................. 555
Fiscal and administrative reform (1784–9) ................................ 556–9
The repercussions of the French revolution on British domestic politics (1789–94) ................. 559–60
The Evangelical movement and the problems of Dissent ................ 561–2
Economic growth and the movement of real wages ..................... 562–3
The legacy of reform in Imperial and domestic politics ............... 564

CHAPTER XX
FRENCH ADMINISTRATION AND PUBLIC FINANCE
IN THEIR EUROPEAN SETTING

By J. F. Bosher, Associate Professor of History in the University of British Columbia

The growth of central authority in Europe in the late eighteenth century .......... 565
Changes in the status, duties and emoluments of public servants ......... 566
Changes in the form and functions of administration .................. 567
Cameralist and Physiocratic conceptions of the role of the state ........ 567–8
The conciliar structure of central government in France before 1789 .......... 568–9
Ministerial organisation and its defects ................................ 569–70
The reforms of Choiseul, Saint-Germain, Sartine and Castries ........... 570–1
The centralised control of local administration through the intendants ........ 571–2
The Contrôle Général des Finances and its specialised agencies ........ 572–3
CONTENTS

The administration of trade and industry under the ancien régime . . . pages 573-4
Government technical assistance to trade, industry and agriculture . . . 575
The reform of the French customs-tariff (1664-1790) . . . . 576-8
The administration and reform of the indirect and direct taxes . . . 578-80
The collection of indirect and direct taxes under the ancien régime . . . 580-2
The government's dependence on short- and long-term credit and the problem of the annual deficit . . . . 583-4
The need for a national central bank and the establishment of the Caisse de l'Extraordinaire . . . . 584-5
The emergence of a modern budgetary system in France . . . . 585-6
Treasury control in the later stages of the ancien régime . . . . 586-7
The organisation of a unified Treasury during the revolution . . . . 588
Fundamental reforms in the system of auditing and accounting (1763-93) . . 589-90
The final emergence of a system of public finance in France . . . . 591

CHAPTER XXI

THE BREAKDOWN OF THE OLD RÉGIME IN FRANCE

By D. Dakin, Reader in History, Birkbeck College, University of London

Contemporary acceptance of monarchical absolutism under the ancien régime . . 592
The enlightened bureaucracy of Louis XV and its limited horizons . . . 592-3
The foreign and domestic policies of the duke of Choiseul . . . . 594-5
Maurepas's judicial reforms (1771) . . . . 596-7
The financial expedients of the abbé Terray . . . . 597-8
The increase of the public debt and the annual deficit under Louis XVI . . 598
The inequitable incidence of direct and indirect taxation . . . . 598-9
The fiscal and feudal burdens of the peasantry . . . . 599-600
The backwardness of French agriculture and the limited expansion of industry . . 600
The changing social structure under the ancien régime . . . . 601-2
The causes of agrarian discontent . . . . 602-3
The critics and defenders of the ancien régime . . . . 604-5
The utilitarian and non-revolutionary character of French liberal thought . . 605-6
Louis XVI and the dismissal of the Triumvirate . . . . 606-7
The theories and practical objectives of Turgot as Controller General . . 607-8
The restoration of the powers of the Parlement of Paris . . . . 608
Turgot's initial financial measures . . . . 608-9
The freedom of the internal grain trade and the guerre des farines . . . . 609-10
The Six Edicts and the dismissal of Turgot . . . . 610-11
The financial and administrative reforms of Necker . . . . 612-13
Calonne's radical reform programme . . . . 614
His reasons for the convocation of an assembly of Notables . . . . 615
The opposition of the Notables and the disgrace of Calonne . . . . 615-16
The administration of Brienne, the failure of the judicial reforms of Lamoignon and the summons of the Estates General . . . . 616-17

CHAPTER XXII

THE HISTORIOGRAPHY OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

By the Rev. J. McManners, Professor of Modern History in the University of Sydney

The sources of historical controversy in the interpretation of the French revolution . 618-19
Early contemporary works and post-Thermidorian histories . . . . 619-20
The abbé Barruel's 'conspiracy theory' of the origins of the revolution . . . 620-1
CONTENTS

The right-wing diagnosis of the period of the Emigration and its links with the historiography of the Left .......................... pages 621–2

The Napoleonic Legend and the bias of patriotism ............................................. 623

The debate on the role of ideas in the genesis of the revolution .................. 623–4

The historic role of the French bourgeoisie in the works of Guizot and Balzac 624–5

The historical determinism of Thierry and Mignet .......................... 625–7

Babeuf and the theory of revolutionary dictatorship ......................................... 628

Comte and the rehabilitation of Danton ......................................................... 628–9

Lamartine’s political romance—L’Histoire des Girondins (1847) ............... 629

The historical distortions and insights of Michelet and Carlyle ............. 630–3

The early documentation of the revolution—Buchez and Michelet .......... 634

Tocqueville and the study of the social structure and administration of the ancien régime ................................................. 634–7

The theme of continuity in Sorel’s L’Europe et la révolution française ...... 637–8

Taine’s fantastic diatribe—Les origines de la France contemporaine (1876–93) 638–41

The rise of scientific method in revolutionary studies ......................... 641–3

Aulard and the documentation of the ‘theory of circumstances’ .............. 643–5

Jaurès and the socialist interpretation of the revolution .................. 645–6

Mathiez and the political and economic background of the Terror ........... 646–8

Right-wing popular expositions after the First World War ................. 648

Cochin’s studies in the propagation of revolutionary doctrines in Brittany 649–50

Statistical analysis in modern research and the magisterial synthesis of Lefebvre 650–2

CHAPTER XXIII
THE OUTBREAK OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

By G. E. Rude, Senior Lecturer in History in the University of Adelaide

The importance of social and economic forces in the outbreak of the revolution. 653

The scarcity and high cost of bread as a source of popular discontent .......... 654

The guerre des farines (1775) and the sporadic bread riots of the period 1775–87 655

Calonne’s reform programme and the révolte nobiliaire of 1787 ................ 656

The opposition of the Parlement of Paris and the demand for the summons of the Estates General .................................................. 657

Lamoignon’s suspension of the Parlements and the provincial revolts of 1788 658

The re-alignments of political forces in the winter of 1788–9 .................. 659–60

Pamphlet warfare in support of the claims of the Third Estate and the royal concession of double representation, December 1788 661

The elections to and social composition of the Estates General ............... 662

The emergence of the ‘patriot’ party .......................................................... 663

The cahiers de doléance of the separate orders ........................................ 663–5

Disorder in the provinces and the Réveillon riots in Paris ..................... 665–6

The opening of the Estates General at Versailles and the procedural conflict over the verification of powers ........................................ 667

The Third Estate’s revolutionary decrees of 17 June 1789 ....................... 668

The failure of the royal session of 23 June ............................................. 669

The emergence of a revolutionary leadership in Paris .......................... 669

The sources of disaffection in the army .................................................. 670–1

The royal attempt at counter-revolution and the fall of the Bastille ......... 672–4

The municipal elections in the provinces ................................................. 675

The Grande Peur and the ‘destruction’ of the feudal régime ................. 675–6

The Declaration of the Rights of Man and the Citizen ......................... 676
CONTENTS

The split in the patriot party over the royal veto and the second Chamber . pages 676–7
The political and economic context of the Parisian insurrection of October . 677–8
The October days and the ascendancy of the constitutional monarchists . 678–9

CHAPTER XXIV

REFORM AND REVOLUTION IN FRANCE:
OCTOBER 1789–FEBRUARY 1793

By A. Goodwin, Professor of Modern History in the Victoria University of Manchester

The October crisis and the prospects of constitutional reform . 680
The restriction of the executive authority of Louis XVI . 680–1
The abbé Sieyès as constitutional theorist . 681
The restrictive electoral franchise and the omnicompetence of the Legislative Assembly . 682
Administrative decentralisation and the new system of elected local authorities . 682–4
The reform of agrarian feudalism . 685–6
The disillusionment of the peasantry with the Assembly’s agrarian and economic policy . 687
The civil constitution of the clergy and the origins of religious schism . 687–9
The renewed cleavage in the political leadership of the Constituent Assembly . 690
The proliferation of popular clubs and the emergence of an organised working-class movement in Paris . 690–1
The assembly’s measures to check popular radicalism . 691
The flight to Varennes as a turning point in the revolution . 692
The ‘massacre’ of the Champ de Mars and the schism in the Jacobin club . 693
Barnave’s secret entente with the court and constitutional revision . 694
The attitude of the Emperor Leopold and the declaration of Pillnitz . 695
The problems inherited by the Legislative Assembly and the growth of faction . 696–7
The decree against the refractory priests and émigrés . 697–8
Ministerial changes: Narbonne as war minister . 698
The Brissotin war policy . 699
Austrian provocation and Kaunitz’s efforts to intimidate the Legislative Assembly 699–701
The Brissotin ministry of Dumouriez and the war with Austria . 701
La Fayette’s schemes for a military dictatorship . 702
The failure of the Legislative Assembly in national defence . 703
The intervention of the Parisian sections and the provincial fédérés . 703–4
The political strategy of Robespierre . 704–5
The insurrectionary Paris Commune and the assault on the Tuileries . 705–6
The domestic and diplomatic consequences of the fall of the monarchy . 706–7
The National Convention and the establishment of the republic . 707
Political factions in the National Assembly . 708
The trial of Louis XVI . 708–9
Revolutionary ideology in foreign policy. Lebrun and the November decrees . 710–11
The decree of 15 December 1792 and the policy of annexation . 711–12
The final issues of war and peace and the outbreak of hostilities with Britain and the united Provinces . 712–13

APPENDIX: Estimated growth of population in Europe and North America in the eighteenth century . 714

INDEX . 717